Mark Opara Guest-Lectures at UMKC School of Law

Seigfreid Bingham attorney Mark Opara recently guest-lectured at the University of Missouri-Kansas City (UMKC) School of Law on the topic of health care law.

UMKC School of Law is Mark's alma mater, and he had the pleasure of stepping into the Health Law II course to teach students about Kansas and Missouri health care fraud and abuse laws.

At Seigfreid Bingham, Mark focuses his practice on health care law matters, having established himself as a go-to attorney for physicians, physician groups, physician management organizations, hospitals and health systems, dentists and dental services organizations, chiropractors, and multidisciplinary practices that need counsel in the space. He also has experience in employment law, mergers and acquisitions, and general corporate work.
