Seigfreid Bingham Adds Two Associates, Expanding Litigation and Corporate Law Practice Groups

Seigfreid Bingham is pleased to announce that Kenzie Clark and Colby Stone recently joined the firm as Associate attorneys in the litigation and corporate law practice groups, respectively.

Kenzie Clark

Kenzie is a member of the firm's Litigation practice group. Her practice encompasses general litigation, employment law, worker's compensation, and construction law. Before joining the firm, Kenzie attended law school at the University of Kansas School of Law, graduating in 2024. She also has worked in California as a legal assistant/apprentice in employment and labor law.

Colby Stone

Colby is a corporate associate and focuses his practice on real estate transactions, estate planning, data and tech, healthcare, sports and entertainment, and other general corporate matters. Colby graduated from the University of Missouri – Kansas City School of Law in 2024 and went to business school at the University of Kansas before law school. Previously, he worked in business consulting.

To learn more, please click here.