Curry Sexton, associate, was featured in a post on the Big 12 Blog Network, “SE: From Litigation to Unpacking NIL Issues, Sexton Thriving As KC Attorney.

Sexton is a former All-Big 12 Wide Receiver at Kansas State University, and is currently practicing in a wide array of litigation services.

“Curry Sexton is ready to talk about acts of God.

Or student-athlete compensation, the transportation industry and a host of other topics that might come across his desk at the Kansas City law firm of Seigfreid Bingham.

The seventh-leading pass catcher in K-State history was sworn into the U.S. Court for the Western District of Missouri last summer, but COVID-19 has thrown Sexton plenty of curveballs as he navigates his first year as an attorney.”
