Thompson recognized for dedication to health care law

Kansas City, Mo. – Mark Thompson was recognized for his leadership and volunteerism to health care law by the American Health Lawyers Association. Each year, AHLA compiles a list of the many dedicated volunteer leaders, authors, speakers, and others who contribute to the success of the Association's activities in RAVES: Recognizing AHLA Volunteer Engagement and Success. Thompson is featured on pg. 14 for the 2015 Fraud and Compliance Forum, and pg. 29 as a chapter author for Representing Physicians Handbook. AHLA provides a collegial forum for members to interact and exchange information with one another. AHLA aims to produce the highest quality non-partisan educational programs, products and services on health law issues. The AHLA's Public Interest Mission helps the association serve as a public resource on important health care issues in communities nationwide.
