

Nonprofit and Tax-Exempt Organizations

An experienced nonprofit attorney can help your organization remain compliant with the IRS.

If you are running a nonprofit or tax-exempt organization, you likely want to focus your energy on helping the community – not worrying about the law. Yet, among the most serious issues you must manage is legal compliance with various state and federal laws and regulations that affect your organization.

As the leader of a nonprofit, we ask that you focus on the operations of your organization, while allowing us to assist you with regulatory compliance and provide you with both legal and practical advice. Our experienced nonprofit attorneys have extensive experience and knowledge and are eager to act as your counsel to help ensure your success.

The attorneys at Seigfreid Bingham who have experience with nonprofits and tax exempt organizations can help you achieve your goals.

Our attorneys are well versed in the laws regarding state, federal, and tax exemption compliance. As a result, we can help you form your nonprofit organization, obtain its tax-exempt status, advise your organization on a day-to-day and strategic level, from handling your nonprofit tax returns to seeking IRS Private Letter Rulings, and other related filings and applications.

Regardless if you are a local charity or a multi-state or international organization or foundation, we can offer our professional services. And we always seek to provide you with exceptional services at competitive rates to help ease your worries about legal fees.
