

Real Estate Litigation

Seigfreid Bingham's Real Estate Litigation practice group represents property owners, developers, landlords, tenants, investors, lenders, and businesses in a broad range of matters involving real estate property. Our attorneys handle cases involving purchase and sale agreements, title and boundary disputes, easements, zoning and land use issues, landlord–tenant conflicts, construction and development disputes, and real estate financing.

We advocate for our clients in state and federal courts, as well as in arbitrations and mediations, drawing on our deep knowledge of real estate law and the practical realities of property transactions. Our goal is to protect our clients' interests, resolve disputes efficiently, and minimize disruption to ongoing business operations and investments.

Beyond dispute resolution, our team provides proactive counsel to help clients identify risks, negotiate stronger agreements, and prevent future conflicts. By combining legal strategy with industry insight, we guide clients through complex real estate challenges and work to secure favorable outcomes that support their long-term business objectives.
